Through leading the student-run Mining and Metallurgy Association at UQ and competing in local, national, and international mining games, I've been lucky to experience first-hand how transformative student opportunities can be. I'm excited to give back by helping create meaningful industry connections, supporting student growth, and contributing behind the scenes to deliver opportunities that future mining professionals will remember and benefit from throughout their careers.

Hi, I am Adam the 2026 President for the Southern Queensland Student Chapter. INTRODUCTION TO THE MINING GAMES

The Mining Games have a proud tradition of connecting students and professionals in the minerals industry for nearly five decades. First established in 1978 to honour the miners who tragically lost their lives in the 1972 Sunshine Mine Disaster in Idaho, USA, the Games have continued ever since as both a commemoration and a celebration of mining heritage. The disaster occurred when smoke and carbon monoxide spread rapidly through the underground workings, cutting off escape routes and claiming 91 lives, making it one of the most devastating mining accidents in U.S. history.

Beyond their symbolic importance, the Games preserve traditional mining practices through competitions such as track set, muck and cart, swede saw, airleg drilling, hand steel, blast board, surveying, and gold panning. These events showcase skills that remain central to the industry's identity, while also giving students the chance to experience the physical and technical challenges faced by generations of miners.

Equally, the Mining Games serve as a platform for networking and professional engagement. Students and industry representatives from across the country come together not only to compete but also to connect through career fairs, site visits, and social functions such as the Awards Dinner. For host regions, the Games provide a valuable opportunity to highlight local industry prospects, attract interstate and international talent, and strengthen ties between academia and the resources sector. In this way, the Games continue to honour the past while actively shaping the future of mining.

ASIA PACIFIC MINING GAMES 2026

The Asia Pacific Mining Games (APAC), formerly the National Mining Games, are the premier student mining competition in Australia. In 2026, the Games will be hosted in Brisbane from Friday 2nd October to Saturday 3rd October, immediately following the New Leaders' Summit.

The competition spans two full days, preceded by a compulsory training session for high-risk events, and concludes with a Gala Awards Dinner where prizes are awarded to men's, women's, and mixed teams across individual events and overall standings. Alongside the competitions, the Games feature careers fairs, site tours, and networking functions, offering sponsors multiple engagement opportunities to connect with students and showcase their organisation.

For industry partners, the APAC Mining Games represent a unique platform to promote career pathways, highlight organisational culture, and build lasting connections with the country's top mining students.

Location, Objectives, and Equipment Upgrades

THE EVENTS

AIRLEG

In the Airleg Event, two team members work together to drill 0.7-metre holes into a concrete wall using an airleg drill. One competitor operates the drill, aiming to achieve maximum depth within approximately one minute, while the other ensures the hole is straight and accurate. The roles are then reversed, with each competitor attempting to drill again. Performance is judged on both safety and the combined depth of the holes.

BLAST FACE TIE-IN

In the Blastface Tie-In Event, teams collaborate to design an effective detonation sequence within a heading's pre-drilled holes, beginning with a burn cut and progressing outward. Competitors first develop their blast design on paper before safely placing detonators into the holes. Judging is based on safety, teamwork, quality of design, and execution.

GOLD PANNING

The Gold Panning event sees each competitor search for flattened gold-coloured BBs in a pan full of dirt and water. At the call of "gold pan!", they begin panning to recover all five BBs. When finished, the competitor calls "time!", with five minutes added for each missing BB. The process is repeated for all team members, and combined times determine the team's final score.

MUCKING

The mucking event begins with a team of five pushing an empty cart up and down the track, then the team will go into their positions with three shovelers, two active, and one on rotation, with the other two members of the team screeding, making sure the dirt is kept in the cart. The competitors will keep shovelling until the cart is filled all the way, then the competitors will push the full cart up and down the track again and once the final bumper at the end is touched the time will stop.

ROCK IDENTIFICATION

In the Rock Identification Event, teams collaborate to identify 10 unknown rock samples using hardness, acid, and magnetic tests. Judging focuses on teamwork, safety, and the number of correct identifications, highlighting both technical skill and effective collaboration.

SURVEY

The Survey Event challenges teams to work collaboratively to determine the coordinates of a designated point using a reference point and a survey total station. Competitors are provided with a notepad and pen for calculations, along with initial instructions on operating the equipment. Judging is based on teamwork, safety, accuracy of coordinates, and time taken.

SWEDE SAW

In the Swede Saw Event, each team member must saw through solid timber secured in a wooden horse as quickly as possible. Teams are provided with two blades, WD-40, and a pre-marked section of timber for the challenge. Once all members have completed their cut, time is called. Judging is based on teamwork, safety, and the total time taken.

TRACK SET

The Track Set Event challenges teams to efficiently and accurately construct a section of railway before deconstructing it. Competitors are provided with sleepers, dog spikes, fish plates, rails, and the necessary tools to complete the task. Judging is based on teamwork, safety, accuracy of the finished product, and the time taken to both build and dismantle the railway.
